

LIQUOR CASES IN WESTERLY COURT

Appeal from Judgment in Murano Case—Michael Gimgarella Put on Probation—G. A. R. Installation—Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers, of Norwich, to Read Paper Before Historical Society.

Two criminal cases were disposed of by Judge Oliver H. Williams at a session of the Third district court in Westery, Friday, and there was continuation of the other cases on the docket. Frank Murano, charged with selling intoxicating liquor without a license, pleaded not guilty. After hearing the testimony of the officers who accused him, the judge found him guilty and sentenced him to ten days in jail. From this judgment an appeal was taken to the superior court and a bond of $200 was furnished for appearance.

Michael Gimgarella was also charged with selling liquor in violation of law. He promptly pleaded guilty and, through an interpreter, asked for the sentence of the court, stating that he had a large family and had sold some beer on Sunday at his home, but at no other time, and would never sell more. He said he had sold beer for a short time and but very little of it; that there never was any disturbance at his home and he had never before been under arrest. After statements by Town Solicitor Agard and Chief of Police Brown, the judge ordered the payment of costs, suspended sentence and placed Gimgarella on probation and to report weekly until the probation was raised.

Charles H. Dean, who has been in jail for four or more months on a battery charge, being unable to furnish bonds for appearance, expected trial at this session of the district court, but further continuance was ordered, this time by reason of his counsel having a severe cold and being hardly able to talk aloud.

A proposed act making radical changes in the Rhode Island National Guard, has been tabled in the house, pending the appointment of committee. The bill provides for the abolition of the offices of quartermaster general, surgeon general and judge advocate general, and that the duties of the quartermaster general shall be performed by the adjutant general whose rank shall be raised to brigadier general. Provision is also made for reducing the rank of members of the governor's staff from lieutenant colonel to major, but it is provided that this change shall not take effect during the term of the present governor in case of his reelection to succeed himself.

The governor, under the act, is empowered to discharge any commissioned officer upon his being rendered supernumerary. It also provides that the full compensation of the adjutant general shall be $1,000 a year, thus cutting off the per diem charges which have been customary to the office in past years.

Here are a couple of rather odd war pictures. One shows a bullet ridden mine which was washed up on the east coast of England. Evidently the mine had broken loose from its anchor and sailors on a warship had plugged it full of holes to render it harmless. At first glance you might think it was the picture of a huge potato. The other shows a Belgian sniper hidden in the top of a blasted oak tree firing at German positions.
